About Bio-Agri Next Global Conference & Expo 2026

The global agriculture industry is undergoing a fundamental transformation driven by sustainability imperatives, climate change, soil degradation, resistance to conventional chemicals, and increasing consumer demand for safe and residue-free food. Agricultural biologicals - including biopesticides, biofertilizers, biostimulants, microbial solutions, and plant health promoters - are emerging as the fastest-growing segment within agri-inputs.

Globally, the agricultural biologicals market is estimated to be growing at 12–14% CAGR, significantly outpacing conventional agrochemicals. Regions such as North America, Europe, Latin America, and Asia-Pacific are accelerating adoption due to regulatory pressure, climate resilience needs, and ESG commitments by agribusinesses.

India, with its vast agro-climatic diversity, strong scientific base, large domestic market, cost-competitive manufacturing ecosystem, and progressive government initiatives, is uniquely positioned to become the global hub for agricultural biologicals - from R&D and manufacturing to validation, scale-up, and exports.

The 1st Edition of BioAgri Next Global Conference & Expo successfully created a dedicated platform for stakeholders across policy, industry, science, and markets. Building on this momentum, the 2nd Edition (2026) aims to take a decisive global leap - positioning India not just as a large market, but as a global innovation, manufacturing, and knowledge centre for biological agriculture.

Objectives

- Showcase India's capabilities in agricultural biological R&D, manufacturing, and scale-up to global stakeholders.
- Facilitate global - Indian partnerships across technology transfer, contract manufacturing, research collaboration, and market access.
- Align global biological innovations with India's regulatory, agronomic, and market realities.
- Highlight government initiatives, policies, and incentives that make India an attractive destination for bio-agri investments.
- Address current challenges in adoption, standardisation, efficacy validation, and farmer trust.
- Create a strong narrative for "Biologicals Made in India – For the World".
- Driving Global Trade & B2B Collaboration: Creating an international platform for stakeholders to explore business opportunities, partnerships, and market expansion for bio-agri solutions.
